

VOL. XXIII.

NEW YORK IS SAFE.

The State Board of Canvassers Is Democratic.

AND WILL HAVE THE FINAL REVIEW.

Governor Hill Has All the Republican Frauds Spotted

AND WILL DO HIS FULL DUTY.

The State Senate Will Be Democratic, as Well as the Lower House—Crisp and Tammany.

NEW YORK, November 17.—[Special.]—

Says received in this city from Albany and some of the interior counties of the state today makes it seem absolutely certain that the democrats will control both houses of the legislature.

The state board of canvassers, composed of the secretary of state, attorney general, comptroller and state engineer, is wholly democratic. They will revise the count of the county supervisors, and the republican frauds will be discovered and corrected.

Two Democratic Senators.

Enough evidence has already been secured to insure the seating of democratic senators from two of the doubtful districts, which will give the democrats sixteen senators—a tie. It is probable that the other two districts, Sena-torships of the thirty-second district, elected as an independent, has assured the democrats that he will vote with them for the reapportionment of the state.

The republicans begin to realize that they are doomed, and are raising the old cry of theft.

The state board of canvassers will see to it that every democratic elector will be seated.

They are allowed until December 15th to complete the canvass and disclose the result.

Governor Hill can be relied on in an emergency. He is a democrat.

Tammany and Crisp.

A Washington special to an afternoon paper in this city today, stated that it was announced in Washington that a deal had been made, by the terms of which the influence of Tammany hall would be the interest of Judge

Crisp, of Georgia, for speaker, and that the southern supporters of Crisp were to vote for ex-Congressman Turner, of this city, for doctor-keeper of the next house.

Commissioner Thomas F. Gilroy, one of the grand sachems of Tammany, was shown the dispatch and asked if it was true. He said he had never heard of any such deal. He thought the New York delegation in congress would vote for Crisp for speaker, but there was no sort of Tammany deal connected with their support.

Another prominent Tammany man said the leaders of the organization were too good politicians to make any such deals. The support of Crisp by the New York delegation, he said, the Trade of the Alliance.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., November 17.—It was late last night, or rather early this morning, when most of the delegates to the Farmers'

Alliance sought slumber. The chief topic of conversation and discussion was the third party movement.

The propagators of the movement went to bed happy, for they had accomplished much.

The "antis," while not so confident, were well determined that the third party movement should not receive the endorsement of the alliance or the Farmers' Mutual Benefit

Association.

Third Party Men Hard at Work.

The third party men have a big lobby in attendance, and are working tooth and nail to secure the support of the alliance and the people's party men that the "big five," Polk,

Macune, Livingston, Tillman and Terrell, alone stand in the way of endorsing the people's party.

On the other hand these gentlemen say that partisan action is expressly forbidden by the alliance constitution, and predict that the alliance of the third party will kill the alliance.

The supreme council of the Farmers' Alliance was called to order in Tomlinson hall at 10:20 o'clock by President Farce, of the Indiana alliance, with nearly all of the 120 delegates and 500 spectators in attendance.

Mayor Thomas Sullivan was introduced and welcomed.

Delegate Tillman's Speech.

Delegate J. E. Tillman, secretary of the alliance executive committee, in responding, thanked the people of Indianapolis for their warm welcome, and paying a tribute to Pres-

It is the farming and laboring people who do the work of the world, and it is to them that we owe the greatest debt of gratitude.

mate combinations and monopolies that tend to

St. Louis, November 17.—The most disasyears started in the furnace room of the large dry goods house of Penny & Gentile, on the buildings on Broadway, between Frank-flames, and within two hours all the walls had fallen and nothing was left but ashes and bent and twisted iron girders.

The fire was very bad. It was not until the morning of the 18th that the fire was loss of the stock was estimated at $500,000.

PATILLO'S DEFENSE.

He Does Not Recognize the Existence of Divorce.

A WIFE ONCE, A WIFE FOREVER.

Therefore He Undertook the Defense of His Divorced Wife, and Slew the Interloper.

Augusta, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—The second day of trial of Mr. L. H. Patillo for killing Hudson was opened this morning by the hearing of evidence for the defense.

Mr. Patillo was first put on the stand, and made a clear and lengthy statement to the jury. He detailed all the facts in the case, and claimed that he was aggravated by Hudson and forced to do violence to him.

Patillo was first put on the stand, and made a clear and lengthy statement to the jury. He detailed all the facts in the case, and claimed that he was aggravated by Hudson and forced to do violence to him.

Mr. Patillo eloquently said that the laws of man could not solve the laws of God; that he had sworn at the altar to honor and protect and defend this lady, and when the man at whose house she was visiting did not protect her, he kept his sacred oath and protected her character, because her disgrace and degradation would have been his.

Hudson was Bulldozing. Mr. Patillo said his collision with Hudson on the fatal night was purely accidental, but he intended to denounce Hudson after he came into his office, and flouted him in his face. He said he considered Mr. Hudson's actions as bulldozing, and that the deceased intended to run over him.

All the witnesses for the defense have testified, and argument of the case by the lawyers was commenced this afternoon. The testimony for the defense was very strong, and there is no doubt but what Mr. Patillo will be acquitted. He has been released from custody of the sheriff on his own recognizance. Mr. Joe Lamar was making the opening argument for the defense when court adjourned at 5 o'clock. He will be followed by Judge Twigg tomorrow, who will make an eloquent speech in favor of Mr. Patillo. Solicitor General Wright will make the closing argument of the state.

THE DEAD POSTMASTER.

No Light as Yet Thrown Upon the Manner of His Death.

Mount Airy, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—The coroner's jury has not reached any verdict as yet in the Church murder case. All efforts have failed to find any one who saw Mr. Church at the house where the trouble occurred, but he was seen running and heard straggling twenty or twenty-five yards from the house after the shooting.

San Hassell, clerk in the Elkin-Watson drug store, of Atlanta; Kate Harris, her husband and two daughters, Martha and Mary Scott, John Sisk, Joe and Charlie Bridger, of this town, are under arrest. Colonel Howard Thompson, of Gainesville, arrived here today, and will do all he can in helping to ferret out the mystery. The funeral and interment will take place tomorrow at Clarksville, Ga.

Beaten to Death.

Nashville, Tenn., November 17.—[Special].—A horrible murder was committed ten miles from Gallatin, on the Nashville road, last night. Passengers were attracted by groans on the roadside, and a search revealed the body of a peddler named Griffin, with his head crushed in several places. He had been attacked by two men, who, after beating him with a wagon standard, robbed him of all his valuables. He lived but a short while after being found.

The Sheriff Locked Her In.

Alpharetta, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Mention was made last week of the fact that Mr. V. B. Green had been placed in jail here. On Monday one of his daughters, for whom Sheriff Mayfield held a warrant, came to the jail to see her father. Mr. Mayfield unlocked the cell her father was in and told her she could go in and see him. She walked in and Mayfield shut the cell door and locked it. It was not until she was ready to leave that she found out that she was a prisoner. She was greatly surprised.

Charles Has Skipped.

Alpharetta, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Charles Darham, aged fourteen years, who lived with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Gilstrap, near town, slipped out his clothes Saturday morning and left for parts unknown.

And Now He's in Jail.

Flowers Branch, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Ephraim Knight, a white man who lived near Maundin's mill, languishes in the county jail for the reason that he picked another man's cotton, and without the proper authority.

The Trees Are Dying.

Carnesville, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—A large amount of fine oak timber is dying in the river swamps of this county, and thousands of dollars are going to waste by it. The only cause that we have heard assigned is owing to the river's filling up with sand. The destruction appears to be confined to oak timber, as the other timber trees are in good health.

The Fire Averted.

Farmham, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Mr. W. S. Atkinson's girls, rice and cotton gin came very near being burned this evening. The cause of the fire was a match in the cotton, but it being a feeder and condenser gin the fire was quickly put out. No damage was done, only Mr. McElwain got burned very badly.

A New Church for Macon.

Macon, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—The congregation of Mulberry street Methodist church met tonight at the residence of William Rogers and decided to build a handsome new church on College Hill. It may be erected on the lot attached to the Wesleyan Female college, corner of College street and Washington avenue.

Personalities in Alabama Politics. Birmingham, Ala., November 17.—[Special].—Personalities of the campaign have brought out from a Kolb speaker an old file of The Montgomery Advertiser, describing a negro republican procession in 1870, in which Governor Jones rode as clerk of the republican supreme court. The matter had been successfully explained years ago, but it is being perverted to the governor's disadvantage.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Boston, November 17.—At today's session of the World's and National Woman's Christian Temperance Union convention, Frances E. Willard was re-elected president. Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge was elected recording secretary, Mrs. Caroline E. Dull, of Chicago, corresponding secretary and head of the department of organization. A number of reports were presented.

RUNAWAY MATCHES.

A Young Married Man of Three Days Denies His Bride.

Haywood, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Haywood and the surrounding country are on a matrimonial boom, three or four couples having joined hearts and hands in the last week.

Mr. Land and Miss Cargal were the first to make the matrimonial venture. The next were a lad of fifteen years and a lady somewhat his senior. The lad stayed with his new bride a few days and then ran away.

Another wedding that was somewhat romantic was that of Charles Cashman and Miss Noland—a runaway match. Charles had engaged John Howell, justice of the peace, to tie the knot, but Mr. Howell was sick and did not come. The couple then walked three miles to another justice of the peace, who soon had them bound for life, and they went their way rejoicing.

Still another runaway match was that of John Waide and Miss Lula Allen, who were married by John Howell, justice of the peace. At 10 o'clock at night, when all the world was wrapped in sleep, John came along in his buggy and the bride that was to be got in and drove to the home of Mr. Howell and the vows were made. They then returned to their mountain home.

SAM JONES IN CARTERSVILLE.

The Evangelist's Home About to Be Elected a Ticket.

Cartersville, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—A large and representative meeting of the best citizens of Cartersville was held in the opera house last night, presided over by Judge Thomas W. Milner. The meeting was called for the purpose of considering matters pertaining to the city's welfare.

The Rev. Sam Jones, who was instrumental in calling the meeting, was present and made a good talk full of practical suggestions. He touched upon prohibition, and gave his good people to be vigilant and keep Cartersville purged of every element that would tend to stain its fair name for morality and the reputation of being the most thoroughly prohibition town in the state. To do this, he said, it was not only necessary to clean out and destroy all the elements that might creep into our midst, but things should be made exceedingly uncomfortable for parties coming here from Rome, Atlanta and Chattanooga taking orders for whiskey to be sent by express. Mr. Jones's remarks received the hearty echoes of the crowd.

Judge Milner, Major Smith and others followed in short talks on the same line. A committee of fifty was appointed by the chairman to select a ticket for mayor and aldermen for the ensuing year, and report the same to a meeting to be called later, for ratification.

FIRE AND FLIGHT.

Creditors Who Are Now Vainly Seeking Consolation.

Chattahoochee, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Mrs. J. S. Ramsey's wagon, last week and was gone for several days, and on a rainy night, somebody's wagon came in after dark and were gone before daylight next morning. It is thought the wagon carried off the family and household and kitchen furniture, as none of the family has been seen or heard of since. They left for parts unknown, leaving some creditors behind. It rained so that no one could tell which way they went, as the wagon tracks were washed out.

During the dry, windy days last week some villain went within 40 yards of the residence of Mr. W. P. Reeves and set fire to the woods, which caught the fence immediately, and the winds blew toward the house. No one was present but his wife and daughter, and one that for help while the other fought the fire until Mr. Buck Hammett and some boys that way and helped them to extinguish it. In a short time the horses and barns would have burned, if it had not been put out, as it was about 2 o'clock when the fire broke out. The wind was blowing very hard in the direction of the houses. We learn that was the second attempt some one has made to burn them out.

CHESTNUT MOUNTAIN.

The Enterprises That Make Up a Flourishing Town.

Chestnut Mountain, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—We have at Chestnut Mountain a glit, a postoffice, a magnificent store, which, we have been informed, will soon be filled with a splendid stock of goods; two shops that are turning out as good and substantial goods as any in the north; a new country academy that is soon to be occupied by bright-eyed and happy school children; several elegant country residences, two of which are being built by the best of the capitalists and Presbyterians—that are regularly visited and well attended. There are, perhaps, a half dozen fine within a radius of three miles, all doing a thriving and paying business. These things indicate a moral tone and progressive public spirit of the citizens around here. With these unmistakable signs and evidences of push and thrift before us, we think the future of Chestnut Mountain is bright and rosy.

A Leading Man.

Barksville, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Mr. R. A. Matthews, of Thomson, is one of the leading men of this section. He is not only a fine business man, but he is also a zealous Christian. He was largely instrumental in building the church at Thomson, in Thomson, which is perfectly beautiful. Besides giving about two thousand five hundred dollars in cash, he gave the work his closest attention. The membership desired to build a new church, and he was the first to give money for the building. He has been strenuously objected to, but the church stands as a monument to his magnanimous spirit.

The Kirmess in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—The kirmess came off at the exposition this morning, and it attracted 3,000 of the music hall, where the dance of all nations was beautifully danced by 150 young ladies and gentlemen of Augusta. The dancers all wore exquisite costumes, and the music was dazzling. Miss Amelia Franco was queen of the kirmess, and she was a picture of loveliness. The kirmess was a grand success and will be repeated for the next three nights.

Good Times in Menlo.

Menlo, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—The crops are almost gathered. The cotton crop is the shortest and the corn crop the best in several years, and the hogs are getting fat on the mast, which means plenty of corn next year.

DEATH RECORD.

Thomasville, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Colonel William McLendon is dead. He passed away morning after an illness of several months. Colonel McLendon was seventy-three years of age. He leaves sons and daughters and a devoted wife. His death was sudden. Among his sons is Hon. Guy T. McLendon, so well known in Georgia. The funeral takes place tomorrow.

Hawthell, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Mrs. Magill, wife of John H. Magill, editor of The Southern States, died this afternoon. She had been in feeble health for some time, but no one suspected that she was so near the end of her journey. Her death was sudden. She was a devoted wife and mother, and she was well known in the town. She leaves six children, the youngest a nursing baby.

Socastee, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—Mr. Tom Mitchell, an employee of the Watson Oil Company, died yesterday, and his body was laid to rest in the family burying ground.

IN AT THE DEATH.

An Exciting Race for the Brush Down in Richmond.

A FAIR EQUESTRIENNE THE VICTOR.

The Story of a Fox Chase and How a Fair Huntress Won the Brush Over the Old Followers of the Chase.

Augusta, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—There was a faint blush in the eastern sky, a glow of light that pierced the darkness and began gradually driving it from the face of the earth. It was dawn, and as the dawn came in, the rays of light that pierced the misty darkness settled upon a picturesque scene.

At a knoll crowned by two great pines stood a group of fox hunters mounted upon steeds that were championing their bits and neighing anxiously for the chase. Nearly two score of well-trained and swift fox hounds were crowding around the leading hunter, who stood among them holding the reins of a well-trained horse.

The hunting party consisted of a half dozen men and two ladies. All were superbly mounted. They were just six miles above Augusta in Richmond county. The hunt was to have commenced at daybreak. All the party was present except one couple. However, before the first notes in the scene became impatient the sound of rapidly galloping hoofs were heard down the road, and in an instant a young lady—a brunette of magnificent appearance, clad in a tight-fitting blue habit—galloped up at full tilt and threw her superb saddle upon her hounds, to an abrupt stop right at the crowd. A short distance behind came her escort, who was himself well mounted, but whose steed could not travel with the thoroughbred of his companion.

They were heartily greeted by the other hunters, and within a few minutes the party was on the move. I had ridden myself that I had the best horse in Georgia for a fox chase. He was a magnificent animal, and could take a ten-rail fence with the grace of a deer. But when I saw Miss Blank's magnificent chestnut charger, with his clean limbs, his heavy muscles and distended nostrils, I knew I had found a match for mine.

Miss Blank sat on her horse like she had been moulded in the saddle. When the horse galloped her body swayed in graceful curves corresponding to the motion of the animal. Indeed, she seemed to be one with the horse and rider seemed one. She held the reins tight, but there seemed no need of reins, for the two thoroughly mounted one another, and by a word the animal would either come to a halt or bound off to a run.

For a mile or more we rode on in rear of the whippers-in, who were riding backwards and forwards through the woods, encouraging the dogs on to find a trail.

We were crossing a branch when a yelp, followed by a long howl, sounded in our front. Every horse reined up. "That's old 'Rock,' and it's a fox sure," whispered an old hunter in the party.

In another instant the entire pack was under full cry, racing away with an open field. There was a wild dash of horses. "That fox is right ahead of the dogs," yelled the same hunter. "He hasn't passed here two minutes. There's no trailing in this. The best man and the best horse got the brush. Now for it, ladies and gentlemen!" and he gave his horse the reins and dashed through an old corn field.

We could see the dogs far ahead. The excitement was intense. Every horse was given the rein and the spur. The horses were as eager and excited as the riders. They dashed over the forested field with the ease and speed of a racer on a track. For the first quarter of a mile the ten horses ran well together. Miss Blank was at my side. "Now, 'Prince,'" I heard her say as she tapped her noble steed upon his silken neck. "Come, come, 'Prince'!" The superb animal understood her words. His ears were thrown back, his nostrils distended and he fairly flew over the ground. My splendid animal was just as game, and in a few seconds we were leaving the crack hunters in the rear and were gaining upon the dogs. We were going like the wind. Miss Blank was leaving me in the rear, too, when I saw a fence a quarter ahead. "Don't attempt that," I yelled, "you don't know what's on the other side."

The dogs were then going over. She never replied in words, but tapped "Prince" upon the flanks with her whip, steadied him with the reins and away they went high above the top rail. I followed, for my horse was a good runner. Then into a bunch of woods we followed, but there showed up, for the fox commenced circling in and out among the undergrowth. The hunters who followed stopped and let down the fence we had jumped. Then they joined us among the trees where we had stopped, waiting for the fox to be driven out and for another chase through the fields.

For twenty minutes the dogs ran in and out of the underbrush. The fox was dodging. They would lose the trail, then find it again, start off in full cry, and then there would be silence for awhile until they "opened up" upon the trail. To the lover of the chase there is no music so sweet as the cry of a pack of hounds under full chase on a hot trail. The yelps of the dogs blend into music sweeter by far than even the combination of stringed instruments and human voices. It makes your blood tingle in every vein. Your whole system vibrates with exciting joy. Every nerve is strung to its highest tension. You feel that the worst of you, though death be the ultimate penalty. And you do.

Here comes the pack toward you. There is the fox. The dogs have chased him from the underbrush. He passes almost between the horses of the hunters. His tongue hangs far out; his tail is erect, and he passes by almost like a gray streak. Not fifty yards behind comes "Rock," the big red dog, at the head of the pack. Only a yard behind are "Kate" and "Jenny," two Kentucky stallions of dogs, running neck and neck, and then, in a bunch, the remainder of the pack, all in full cry. They are by before the hunters can spring off. But we follow in an instant. Miss Blank's gallant "Prince" takes the lead from the jump. Her cap has fallen off and her long brown tresses stream back in the wind. The noble animal she rides seems to be sailing through the air. He appears not to touch the earth. I pull away from the others, but my animal now proves to be no match for "Prince," whose muscles and limbs seem to work with the rapidity and precision of machinery. Over a wide gulley he leaps, with his fair rider sitting so gracefully that she seems a part of her steed. She takes a fence; another gulley; through a cotton field; into a meadow among grazing cattle; up and down hill she fairly flies after the dogs. It is a level field now, apparently, for a mile. The fox and dogs are in sight. The first round is not fifty yards in rear of the fox. "Prince" and his fair rider are not far behind. Every dog is in full cry. The music they make is thrilling. Excitement is at its highest pitch. "Rock" is gaining on the fox. He is but ten feet behind. He gains at every bound. The fox is but five feet in advance. He is running for life. A moment more and "Rock" grabs him. Over they tumble, and the next instant there is a confused, mixed mass of dogs grabbing for the little animal that has given them such a chase. Right into the midst of the pack "Prince" carries his charge, falls upon his haunches and almost kneels as his fair rider slides gracefully off and scatters the dogs with her whip. In another instant she has severed the brush, from the body of the fox, with a knife blade that closes into the handle of her riding whip, and waves it gracefully high above her head as the other hunters dash up.

It is an inspiring scene. Hats come off; a cheer goes up; "Prince" neighs and rubs his velvety nose upon the flowing mane of his mistress for she knows he deserves, "Well done, noble steed."

BIBB IS ALL RIGHT.

Her Tax Collector Is as Remarkable as Fulton's. Macon, Ga., November 17.—[Special].—The Atlanta papers are singing the praises of Tax Collector Stewart, of Fulton, for making such a fine showing of his insolvent list for the year 1890. The uncollected taxes amounted to $2,642.34. This is certainly a splendid exhibit for so large a county as Fulton, but old reliable Bibb comes to the front in first-class style and shows that in her collector, J. B. Jones, she has as good an officer as any county in the state.

Today the county commissioners of Bibb held a meeting and made a settlement in full with Tax Collector Jones for 1890. Out of a total tax to be collected, a verdict of $1,000 was returned. The uncollected taxes for 1890 were $1,000. It is very gratifying to us to be able to announce that we have secured the contract for furnishing Cars, Parlor and Bridal Chamber Furniture and Draperies for the commodious withstanding the strongest competition by the best dealers in the country. This is a compliment to Atlanta, as well as to ourselves, as it shows that Atlanta can supply what southern hotels need, and that there is a house here which can meet all the demands. This is one of the largest contracts ever taken out in the south, and probably the largest ever undertaken by a southern house, amounting, as it does, to $15,000.

During the last few years, since we have been in the Carpet business, we have fitted out in a most satisfactory manner the following elegant hotels: The Bluffton Hotel, at Bluffton, contract price, $2,500; The Ballard House, at Santa, contract price, $3,500; the St. Simon's, at Brunswick, contract price, $6,000; the Empire, at Blanton, contract price, $7,500; the Sweetwater Park Hotel, contract price, $9,000; the Oglethorpe, Brunswick, contract price, $12,000; the State Capitol, Atlanta, contract price, $14,000, besides refurnishing at different times such places as the Kimball and Markham, as well as many private residences, where the contracts amounted to thousands of dollars.

We are now better prepared than ever with our

GO REGISTER NOW!

If You Want to Vote in the City Election.

HOW AND WHERE TO REGISTER.

The Anti-Barroom Supporters Preparing to Vote—Judge Hopkins Advises Registration.

The registration books close next Wednesday, the 25th instant.

The books are in the hands of City Tax Collector C. K. Maddox, in the city hall, and those who have not registered should do so at once.

To register you must have lived twelve months in the city, six months in the county and ten days in the city. You must have paid all taxes, except for this year, since 1877. Those include poll taxes to the state and property taxes to the state, county and city.

Two hundred and three Atlantians registered yesterday.

One hundred and forty-nine were white voters.

And fifty-four were colored voters.

How many of the 203 will cast a vote for the citizens' ticket?

Just now that is the interesting and absorbing question.

With the whites the sixth ward took the lead in registering, and during the day thirty-six names were enrolled by the tax collector.

A mighty small list that for the most populous ward in the city.

The third ward added the fewest names to the list of the white voters—twenty-one.

Of the colored voters the heaviest registration was from the fourth ward—sixteen, and the lightest from the second—two.

When the books closed last night and Tax Collector Maddox cast up his accounts he found it this way:

First ward, white	630
Second ward, white	247
Third ward, white	216
Fourth ward, white	16
Fifth ward, white	462
Sixth ward, white	528
Seventh ward, white	817
Eighth ward, white	122
Total	4,607

How It Looks.

Of the four thousand and more who have registered the whites have about three to one.

But how will they vote?

Every one who advocated the citizens' movement should try to answer that question and then go register.

To vote you must register and to register you have just one week from today.

The registration books close next Wednesday, November 25th.

How to Register.

For years and years Atlanta has had three or four registers located in the city at convenient points for the voters, where they could go and qualify.

But that's all changed. Atlanta now has but one register, and that is the city tax collector, Mr. Charles Maddox.

The law was changed in 1880, and by that law the tax collector was supplied with power and authority, which he received a taxpayer's tax, to list him as voter. The law as it now stands is in the city code of 1891, page 328.

Sections 957 to 967.

Sections 959, 960, 961 and 962 describe the duties of the tax collector as register.

Then section 963 gives the oath the voter must take, and it is:

Sec. 963. The oath to be required of voters registering their names shall be in the following form to-wit:

Georgia, Fulton county, city of Atlanta, I, do solemnly swear that I am a citizen of the United States, that I am twenty-one years of age, that by the first week in December next I will have resided in the state of Georgia one year, and in Fulton county six months next preceding the date aforesaid; that I am a resident of the city of Atlanta, and that I have paid all legal taxes which have been required of me, and which I have had an opportunity of paying, agreeably to law, since the 1st day of December last, except taxes for the present year, so help me God.

Signed before me this day of November, 1891. Tax collector or register. No., street, ward.

Sections 964 to 967 provide for the removal of a voter from one place to another in the city.

How to Register.

The most convenient time is when you pay your taxes, as the tax collector is the register. Mr. Maddox is his assistant in the court house for state and county elections, and Mr. Maddox and his assistant in the city clerk's office for city elections.

But the payment of taxes registers nobody.

To register, a voter must take the required oath and give a particular description of his residence, that is to say the street and number of his residence or give otherwise as accurate a description of it as possible.

And voting in city elections, but the registration must be done by the city clerk or his assistant.

How It Looks.

Tax Collector Maddox is personally acquainted with nearly every voter in Atlanta, and has a pretty accurate knowledge of the political feelings of all who come to the counter to register.

Speaking of the registration yesterday he said:

"It is astonishing the apathy business men and property owners show when it comes to registering. They pay their taxes willingly, and when they do so many walk away without registering unless we suggest it. It would be no trouble to them except to subscribe to that oath."

"How does the registration compare between the friends of the two tickets? Have you any idea?"

"We never ask a man how he is going to vote, still, knowing the people, we form our own opinion."

"And what's that?"

"It is only an opinion, but that opinion is that the friends of the citizens' ticket are not working like others."

It is a known fact that the anti-barroom ticket supporters are working zealously and industriously. Their ticket has a thorough organization behind it, and the members are pushing the campaign vigorously. It is asserted that each member has given a list of names, and that it then becomes his duty to see each one on that list. With an industrious zeal the member goes about his task, and lets up only after securing a full and complete list.

The conservative citizens might take a lesson from this and do the same.

That the colored voter is doing his best can be best illustrated by a remark of a prominent Marietta street merchant yesterday.

"I work," said he, "just the same number of men that a barber across the street works. Not one of my men are registered, but today I ascertained that every man in that barber shop had registered."

The Water Bonds.

Apart from the election of the aldermen and councilmen, the water bonds form an important element in the contest.

The people are somewhat anxious about the bonds and many do not know what vote is necessary to make the issuance legal.

Judge Anderson, the assistant city attorney, however, makes the situation plain.

"In the first place," said he, "the registered vote is the basis of calculation and it takes two-thirds of this number voting in favor of the bonds to authorize their issue. This was decided by the supreme court of Georgia last year in the Gavan case. So if there shall be six thousand voters registered when the books close on November 25th, four thousand of them must vote in favor of the bonds to authorize their issue. If a citizen favors the bonds and has registered he must vote in their favor—otherwise he counts against them."

"Won't the council have to meet to hear from the tax collector after the books are closed?"

"No. The consolidation and report of the number registered is to be made at the first meeting of the council after the completion of the registration. This is to have an official record made in the minutes of council as to the number of votes registered every year and does not necessitate a special meeting of council, as the report and entry can be made after as well as before the election. It being merely the result of the counting of the names registered by November 25th."

"What is necessary to qualify as a voter?"

"To qualify a voter to register he must be a citizen, must have lived twelve months in the state, six months in the county, and be a resident of the city. And he must have paid all legal taxes except for this year, since 1877—that is, from 1878 to 1890, inclusive."

"These include poll taxes to the state and property taxes to the state, county and city, but do not include road or street taxes in the county, or street or street taxes in the city. As to these the duty is road work or street work—the privilege is to pay instead of working."

It is Causing Talk.

The prime issue in the election just now is the conservative movement to maintain the status quo in all affairs and avoid an agitation of foreign issues.

But another issue is looming up and may come to the front.

That is the half million of waterworks bonds Atlanta will disburse next year nearly a million and a half dollars.

That is a big pile of money to be handled and the handling of it wouldn't hurt any one. In fact, there are several institutions which would be glad to have that money pass through their hands. Among some people there is a belief that efforts are being made to control the city of Atlanta with this money. It is even asserted that the handling of the money is more important to some than the election of either of the tickets.

Every qualified voter in the city is the expressed sentiment of the city executive committee, and all those interested in its success should register.

It is an important matter and one that cannot be delayed. The city executive committee should call a meeting at once and appoint ward officers to stir the people up on the question of registration.

Judge John L. Hopkins, chairman of the city executive committee, was seen yesterday by a reporter of THE CONSTITUTION, and asked for his opinion in regard to the suggestion for the appointment of a committee in each ward to ask the people to register.

The matter, said he, "has not been brought before me at all, but it strikes me as an excellent idea. I am in favor of doing everything that will bring out the voters and cause them to register."

I am not," he added, "in politics at all, but I want to do everything that will insure the success of the citizens' ticket. I will consult with the members of the executive committee tomorrow and see about the matter."

The following card from Mr. M. P. Camp, of the first ward, will explain itself. Mr. Camp is one of Atlanta's best citizens, and he raises himself in popular estimation by his many stand for the citizens' ticket, even though he is not a voter.

But Atlanta will yet call him to her service. Mr. Camp says:

"The Herald does me an injustice in a piece published yesterday, in which I am quoted as saying that I would vote for the citizens' ticket. I am not a voter, and I do not intend to vote for the citizens' ticket. I am in favor of doing everything that will bring out the voters and cause them to register."

The League Endorses.

The Railroad Men's League has unanimously endorsed the citizens' ticket and will actively support it.

It is enthusiastic for the success of the ticket as it has three representatives on it.

"IT IS THE PEOPLE."

Think of this and Register—Your Vote Is Needed for Atlanta's Good.

From Judge John L. Hopkins's Letter.

"I believe the citizens' movement is right; I think it best for the city, and therefore desire its success. That I was chairman of the committee of one hundred does not make me in any sense a representative of it. It has no representative; it is the people. I am for peace, harmony and resolute work for Atlanta. I have never known in Atlanta greater need of united effort, on the part of her people, than now. Her marvelous growth has been such as to require miles upon miles of new streets, sidewalks and sewers, and a new supply of water is imperatively demanded. These public works have to be carried on and completed. They have become necessities. The further imposed by them on the people will be great. All things point to a trial period in our history. We are passing through a crisis and putting on the new. It comes upon us just as an unpropitious time. We are but just emerging from a time of great general distress, and the city is in a state of poverty. Not like most other cities, perhaps, but still she has suffered greatly. So it is that, when least able to carry it, the city is subjected to an untold burden. There is but one way to carry it—harmony and united effort are indispensable."

THE CANDIDATES MEET.

The Candidates on the Citizens' Ticket Hold a Meeting.

There was a meeting of the candidates on the citizens' ticket at room 104, Kimball hall, last night.

Many of the friends of the candidates were present. Nearly all the candidates were present, and those who were absent were represented by proxies.

The situation was talked over and great enthusiasm was manifested. Great victory was predicted at the December election.

Short talks were made by some of the candidates present, and when an adjournment was reached those present were more than ever confident of victory.

THE GATE CITY GUARD.

Second Lieutenant B. M. Goldsmith Promoted—Other Facts About the Company.

At 8 o'clock last night Lieutenant Gene Hardeman, of the Fourth Georgia battalion and Lieutenant Richardson, of the Atlanta Rifles, took charge of the ball box in the armory of the Gate City Guard.

There was an election for first lieutenant's place made vacant by the promotion of Lieutenant Kendrick to the captaincy, and Second Lieutenant B. M. Goldsmith was unanimously elected. Fifty votes were cast and he received every one of them.

Lieutenant Goldsmith was eminently deserving of this promotion. He is a superb drillmaster, a rigid disciplinarian and a courteous gentleman. He is one of the most popular military men in Atlanta. He will lead the Gate City Guard in a flourishing condition.

Next Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. A. H. VanDyke will tender a reception to the members of the company. This will be a brilliant event.

The anniversary sermon before the company will be preached next Sunday night by the Rev. Walter Lewis in Trinity church. The company will attend these services in full uniform.

The company will give a delightful reception to its friends the night of Tuesday, November 24th. No formal invitations will be issued, but all friends of the company are invited to be present. There will be music, recitations, drilling, refreshments and dancing.

The night of Thursday, December 3d, the Atlanta amateur minstrels will give the company a benefit performance in DeLoe's opera house.

Several other interesting events are on the tapis.

BEERMAN SKIPPED

Leaving Two Wives in This City to Mourn His Loss.

A MIGHTY MEAN MAN HE SURELY WAS.

Raphael Beerman, a Russian Jew, with Too Many Wives and a Bad Character Generally.

The Russian Jews of this city were much excited and very indignant yesterday over a social sensation that has just come to light.

Raphael Beerman, a Marietta street merchant, was the subject of their condemnation, and his heartless conduct is responsible for much trouble.

Today Beerman has two wives in this city, both of whom lay claim to his worldly goods and affection.

But he is not here to act as an umpire in the matter.

Mrs. Beerman No. 2 has lived with Beerman in this city for about four years and has two children, while Mrs. Beerman No. 1 arrived here from Baltimore.

The first wife tells a pitiful story of cruel desertion by her husband and of the great trouble she has experienced in consequence thereof.

As soon as the original Mrs. Beerman arrived the police were notified and were requested to arrest Beerman on the charge of bigamy.

They called at his place of business to make the arrest, but found the doors securely closed and the man gone. He had evidently received information of the arrival of his first wife, and decided to save himself by flight.

Beerman seems to be a very cruel-hearted individual, and the story of the desertion of his wife and subsequent elopement with Miss Fannie Kemp, a pretty brunette of Norfolk, Va., stamps him as an all-around bad man.

Seven years ago, in a Russian village, Beerman courted and wedded one of the handsomest damsels of the country. She was, and is yet, bright, vivacious, plump and handsome, and when the dashing young Jew won her heart and hand, he secured a coveted prize. Not being satisfied with the slow process of getting rich in his native country, he moved to Germany, where he lived happily with his handsome bride for two years. From Germany he moved to London to try his fortune in the world's metropolis. He was still not satisfied, and made up his mind to come to America.

He bade his wife and two children a fond goodbye, and set sail for this country. When he landed in New York he made his way to Norfolk, Va., and went into business. He soon laid up a little money and sent for his wife and children, sending them a ticket from London to Norfolk. Accompanying this ticket was a long and loving letter telling his wife what joy her safe and speedy arrival would bring him, and how he longed to see his darling babies. With a light heart and glowing anticipations of a prosperous and happy life with her husband, she and her children, sending them a ticket from London to Norfolk. WITH BALL AND CUE.

Billiard Experts Give a Fine and Skillful Exhibition.

THE NAPOLEON LEADS THE WIZARD.

The Wizard Won Easily in a 200-Point Game but Is 145 Points Behind in the Balk-Line Match.

Ives—0, 3, 7, 10, 43, 44, 2, 0, 2, 10, 9, 2, 4, 87, 47, 5, 3, 29, 1, 5, 2, 0, 27, 11, 40. Total, 400; average, 16.

Schaefer—0, 2, 1, 15, 2, 3, 2, 7, 0, 0, 20, 19, 60, 11, 1, 7, 4, 31, 7, 0, 0, 14, 29, 11. Total, 235; average, 10.2.

The above are the scores made by the two billiard experts in the balk-line exhibition contest at Concordia hall last night. Messrs. Frank C. Ives and Schaefer, the champion, started in on a 200-point game, 400 points a night for three nights. At the close of the first night Ives was 145 points ahead of the "wizard."

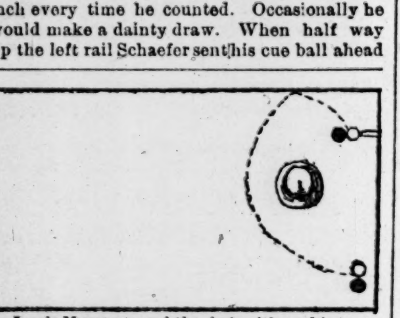

The men played in dress suits, and were applauded when they entered. Each brought his own cues along, Schaefer using a seventeen-and-a-half-ounce stick, and Ives's was a half ounce heavier.

They prefaced the balk-line game with a three-ball game of 200 points. Mr. Parker, the manager, announcing in advance that everything would go, scratches and all. Their audience was fair in size, and composed almost entirely of local billiard enthusiasts.

Ives led off and missed, to the surprise of the spectators. Schaefer stepped jauntily up to the table and his first shot couched the balls near the lower rail. Two or three more easy shots and he had them huddled in the lower left-hand corner. He began a gentle nudging treatment, carrying them across along the lower rail. Reaching the right rail, he sent his cue ball between the red and black and then turned them back. It was click, click and point, and the same thing over and over.

On his fortieth shot the wizard had all three balls in the lower left-hand corner again, and from there he started them up the left rail.

So light was his stroke that the red and black moved barely more than a quarter of an inch every time he couched. Occasionally he would make a dainty draw. When half way up the left rail Schaefer sent his cue ball ahead and turned the red and black back again. On the sixty-fourth shot the balls froze. They were spotted and Schaefer missed in returning to the black.

Ives's Masse around the hat with cushion.

Ives made one, two, three by cross-table shots. Then he got them together, and counted right along. He made a fine masse on the ninth, and a pretty draw on the twelfth, going out on the fourteenth.

Schaefer missed, though it was not a hard one apparently. Ives ran twenty-four, making several mass shots. Schaefer missed again, and Ives followed suit. Either could have counted, but they attempted difficult plays for position. Schaefer found the balls scattered, but after playing them across the table four times, bunched them in the upper left corner. He counted on and on by delicate nudging across the upper rail. His twenty-sixth was a masse, which the audience applauded, so skillfully it was made. At his thirteenth he slipped in front of the red and black and started them back. He played with marvelous ease and grace and art, and kept the ivory under perfect control for a long time. Finally the red got off from the rail a few inches, and the next shot it was sent across the table and came back in position. After that they did not get separated until the fifty-sixth, which was missed.

Ives tried to draw and missed. Schaefer huddled the balls at once and resumed his nudging play. His sixteenth was a masse, which drew loud applause. He twenty-fourth was a difficult shot from left to right along the lower rail and a draw back to the corner. In solemn voice Referee John Miller, of the Kimball billiard room, called, 66, 67, 68, and on up to the eighty-first, which completed Schaefer's 200 points; leaving Ives with a score of forty-one.

The Balk-Line Game. This contest being over, the table was marked off for the fourteen inch balk line game; a chalk line parallelogram being drawn on the cloth fourteen inches inside the cushions. Two shots could be made inside the line, but on the second shot the ball had to pass out.

Ives again won the lead and missed. Schaefer had no better luck. Ives ran three, tried a masse and missed. Schaefer scored only two. Ives ran seven without having any hard shots. Schaefer added but one to his score. Ives followed with some pretty shots. His fondness for the masse was plainly apparent by this time and he was generally successful in counting, but he missed one that was easy compared to others he had made. He made two masses in succession, one of them being particularly fine. After counting eight he got the balls in the lower left corner, which is a favorite of his, and it was in and out, in and out.

Ives ran up forty-three, doing some beautiful nudging outside the upper line. His thirteenth shot in this run was a fine play for position, the cue ball being sent the full length of the table against the red and drawing the white in the balk line and leaving the black to the "wizard." Ives's thirty-third and thirty-fourth, one a masse and the other a draw, were applauded.

The fourth shot which Schaefer attempted after his opponent's run of forty-four would have been brilliant had he counted. It was a fellow and draw, such a stroke as no one but a genius could hope to make.

The runs were small for some time, Schaefer failing to count twice in succession. Although he did make twenty-nine and then thirty, which was his best string of the night in this contest. His success in keeping the balls close together. He would play against the cushions a good deal, though, and they were not true. Ives avoided this as much as he could with better success. Schaefer's fifty-sixth shot in his big run was made by a long draw. Then he counted again by going around and taking four cushions.

Ives did his most brilliant playing on his run of eighty-seven. Along about his fifth button his cue ball seemed scarcely to touch the red and black. Along about his sixtieth he made remarkable plays along the lower rail. He missed on his eighty-eighth simply because the white had not quite "legs" enough.

This run gave Ives such a lead that Schaefer was hardly expected to catch him. The wizard made only two good runs after that, while the young man added four.

There was very little playing around the table. Schaefer is the most accomplished billiardist, and his style is full of brilliant work, frequently giving the unexpected in execution.

After Ives had made 400 the positions of the balls were marked, and the contest was adjourned until tonight.

Schaefer gave an exhibition of dazzling fancy shots. There was a follow and draw, and a three-cushion shot made by drawing the ball without a masse. He played the cue ball on the top of the cushion, and made a draw down the top of the rail which set the spectators cheering. One of his fancy shots is shown in the accompanying diagram.

Two of Ives's shots are illustrated here. There was another masse around a hat without nudging on the cushion. Occasionally the starting of a masse was a carom of the white on the red, the white jumping off on the floor, and drawing back to the red under the table. Tonight the balk-line game will be continued, and prices will be 75 and 50 cents.

A REPORTED RUPTURE. Down in the Kiser building it is stated that the Sam road has nobody to blame but itself for the predicament it finds itself in at present. From America comes a complaint that the Richmond and Danville is trying to crowd the smaller line by breaking off the traffic arrangements at Lyons, where the Savannah and Western end the eastern end of Colonel Hawkins' road begins.

So far as passenger business is concerned, the rupture between the two roads does not seem to cause much new annoyance. There was a delay there before. There is still one. The only difference is that through passengers have to change cars. Tickets are sold through and baggage is checked through. So passengers really do not suffer much inconvenience. With the freight traffic the same cannot be said. There is a hitch there.

THE COLD WAVE.

An Official Map Which Gives a Picture of the Blizzard.

THE WEATHER MADE PERFECTLY PLAIN.

The First Great Blizzard of the Season Covers the Country East of the Rockies—Intense Cold.

The predicted cold wave began to make itself felt early yesterday morning, and by 8 o'clock last night the temperature had reached the freezing point in almost the whole region east of the Rocky mountains. Even as far south as Palestine, Tex., the temperature was 34 at 8 o'clock and went below the freezing point by midnight. In Atlanta the mercury showed 33 degrees at 8 o'clock and down to 23 before the small hours this morning. It was a typical cold wave, and as will be seen by the accompanying map, covers an unusually large section of the continent.

In marked contrast with this is the temperature in the peninsula of Florida, where the gulf stream or other modifying causes have fully neutralized the effect of the cold wave, which pressed quite vigorously on Savannah, hard by. When the temperature was 32 in Atlanta it was 46 in Savannah, and 66 in Jacksonville, with a midday maximum of 76. Thus while the people of Atlanta were shivering in open cars and bundled up in their heaviest wraps and overcoats, the people of Jacksonville were perspiring under a subtropical sun. Nothing could more strikingly emphasize the variety of weather on this continent.

A comparison of this map of last night's weather, with yesterday's morning map shows that the center of the cold wave did not move very rapidly, but its eastern and southern outskirts spread rapidly toward the gulf and the Atlantic. In the northeast it crowded close upon the retreating rainstorm, and at Detroit, in the wake of a low area, where ordinarily there should have been clearing weather, the icy touch of the blizzard wrung a few tears from the fleeing clouds.

A Typical Cold Wave. The accompanying map prepared for THE CONSTITUTION at 11 o'clock last night by Mr. Park Morrill, weather bureau forecast official for Georgia. The dotted lines, passing through points of equal temperature, are known as isotherms, and the unbroken lines, passing through points of equal atmospheric pressure, are called isobars. The isobars usually bound the storm, whether it is a "high" or "low" area, whether it is an atmospheric wave or an atmospheric whirlpool. The winds also usually blow in the direction of the isobars, for they blow around the storm.

The synopses showing the state of the weather at each station are as follows: An open circle means fair weather, circle with a single bar means partially cloudy; with a cross, cloudy; with a double cross, rain. The arrows fly with the wind.

The Official Synopsis. Mr. Morrill furnishes this synopsis: The storm area in the lake region has passed rapidly down the St. Lawrence valley, the pressure having risen above the normal throughout the United States. It still remains cloudy in the eastern lake region, and was raining at a single point, Detroit, at 8 p. m. The rainfall during the day has been chiefly confined to the shore states. The precipitation was a quarter of an inch about the lower lakes.

The western anti-cyclone has continued its movement eastward and is now central Kansas City where there is a pressure of 30.74. The cold wave continues its eastward movement, the center of cold now being in northern Minnesota, where the temperature was below zero at 8 o'clock. The temperature was also below the freezing point as far south as northern Texas, Alabama and Georgia. The mercury has fallen throughout the country west of the Mississippi. The rainy weather prevails in the Mississippi valley and to the west.

Forecast for Today and Tomorrow. The forecast for today is clear weather and continued low temperature, with northwesterly winds of decreasing force. For tomorrow: Fair weather, with slow, steady temperature and light, northerly winds.

Snow in Middleboro. MIDDLEBORO, Ky., November 17.—[Special.]—The first snow of the season fell here last night. The weather is very cold. A strong westerly wind is blowing.

WITHOUT KNIFE OR FIRE. Mr. S. E. Carmichael, a prominent citizen of Henrietta, Texas, writes: "I wish to tell you what Swift's Specific has done for my wife. Several years ago there appeared a spot on the corner of her nose which gradually increased in size and became quite painful; on washing her face it would frequently bleed. The doctors called it cancer, and advised that it be removed by the knife or burning, stating that it would never do to neglect it. My wife refused to have it removed, but at the same time it continued to grow worse. After a time she commenced taking S. S. S., which effected an entire cure. She used a half dozen small sized bottles. We both think there is no medicine in the world that will equal Swift's Specific, and we would like for all sufferers to know the benefit she has received from it."

S. S. S. cures blood diseases of this character by forcing out the poisonous germs and the poison also. A valuable book on blood and skin diseases will be mailed free. Address, SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Can't Settle Except by Death. RICHMOND, Va., November 17.—A special from Mount Airy, N. C., to The Dispatch says William Beaman, ex-treasurer of Carroll county, Virginia, committed suicide today by shooting himself through the head with a pistol. He failed of election recently, and had not settled his account with the county and expressed his inability to do so, which, it is believed, led to the rash act.

Going to Augusta.—Councilmen McBride, Turner, Woodward, Hendrix and Hutchison will leave for Augusta this afternoon to attend the annual river improvement conference, which meets there tomorrow. They will return tomorrow night.

HIS MOTHER WAS DRUNK.

And He Concluded to End His Life in a Horrible Manner.

WILKESBARR, Pa., November 17.—William Ruddy, a young man aged twenty-six years, committed suicide in a most sensational manner, at his home in this city, this morning. It is alleged that Ruddy came home and found that his mother had drunk to excess. This so troubled him that he resolved to make away with himself. He engaged in some hot words with his mother, who replied mockingly. Driven to desperation by his mother's words, Ruddy poured coal oil over himself and by thrusting his hand into the fire became enveloped in flames. He then seized a sharp knife and stabbed himself over the heart, inflicting a wound that would in itself result fatally. He was terribly burned, his flesh hanging in shreds and in a short time death ended his excruciating suffering. The flames from his clothing soon set fire to the interior of the dwelling, and the fire department was called out, the structure being saved after some rapid work.

Arrest of a Postoffice Thief. ANNISTON, Ala., November 17.—[Special.]—John Ross and E. J. Langston, both negroes were arrested here for stealing packages from the postoffice. For several months complaints have been made to Postoffice Inspector Fred D. Peer about packages being missed from the office here. The immediate cause of the arrests was the theft of a pair of shoe uppers, which Langston sold to the party who ordered them. He was suspicious and stated that he bought them from Ross, who has access to the office for the reason that he moved garbage, and would go in there to remove the waste paper.

ALBANY'S CLAIM

For Better Depot Facilities Before the Commission.

AN IMPORTANT DAY FOR THE CITY.

The Commissioners Agree Upon an Order That the Railroads Must Do Better for the City.

ALBANY, Ga., November 17.—[Special.]—The railroad commissioners, Hon. L. N. Trammell, Judge Fort and Colonel Virgil Powers, together with representatives of the Richmond and Danville, the Savannah, Florida and Western, the Brunswick and Western, and the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery railroads, have been in the city today, conferring upon the question of securing a union passenger depot.

The Columbus Southern railroad was not represented in the conference, owing to the sickness of G. G. Gandy Jordan.

After going over the ground and carefully investigating the present passenger facilities of the different roads, the commissioners gave the railroad representatives until the first of next January to agree upon the erection of a union passenger depot. Failing in this, each road will be required to build a standard depot in four months after that date.

A formal order to this effect will be issued upon the return of the commissioners to Atlanta.

Today, after the object of their visit had been accomplished, the visitors were given an elaborate spread by the city council and the board of trade. Every citizen of Albany is congratulating himself upon the result of the commissioners' visit.

WILL TRY TO UNITE.

Southern Associations Are Trying to Get Together.

Some time soon, probably next week, the members of the board of railroads of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association and the Southeastern Mississippi Valley Association will hold a meeting in Louisville or New Orleans. The purpose of the meeting will be to arrange for merging the two bodies together. There is a possibility, however, that the scheme will fall through. At present the Richmond and Danville has everything its own way, and there is some question of the plan upon which the Southern Railway and Steamship Association is run. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says that if the plan is not discriminating it is "at least very loose in its methods." The Mississippi Valley Association's members think that there will be a consolidation, but will insist on the Southern association signing a rigid agreement.

RICHMOND TERMINAL STOCKS.

The Wreckers at Work Again Disturbing Values.

NEW YORK, November 17.—[Special.]—Richmond Terminal securities declined on the stock exchange today, and are expected to remain in an unsettled condition until after the annual meeting of the company, and the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company.

It is expected that President Inman will endeavor to fully establish himself in control of both companies at these meetings, and it is also anticipated that the fact that he has been opposing him for some time will make an effort to elect Eckstein Norton or General Samuel Thomas, president of the Terminal company, and, until the question of control for another year is definitely settled, the stock will probably continue to decline, although Mr. Inman and his friends are known to control a majority of the stock and his re-election seems assured.

SAVANNAH IS THE PORT

Which Is Bound to Find Favor All Over the Country.

DES MOINES, Ia., November 17.—[Special.]—Reliable statistics show that 80 per cent of the shipments of dry goods and notions for Kansas City, St. Joseph, Omaha, and other points in this region from the east via the Savannah steamship and railway line, as affording the lowest rates and greatest dispatch, hence the earnestness and enthusiasm with which the scheme to improve Savannah's river and harbor is endorsed in this section. Today Governor Boies, of Iowa, and the commercial interests of Des Moines, added their support to Savannah's deep water project. Seventeen railroads center here.

Probable Sale of the Georgia Southern. MACON, Ga., November 17.—[Special.]—Will the Georgia Southern system of railroads be sold?

That is the rumor now in the wind. Agent Trumbull, of Denver, Col., representing a syndicate of English capitalists, has been in Macon several days investigating the books of the Georgia Southern roads. He was much pleased with all he saw, and became convinced that the property is a good investment. The Macon Construction Company and the car trust are thought to be the only possible obstacles in the way of a purchase, though all difficulty in this line was promptly removed. It is said Trumbull's syndicate is willing to give 60 cents on the dollar for all the bonds of the Georgia Southern. General Manager Lane and Agent Trumbull went down the Georgia Southern yesterday on a tour of inspection.

Anniston Is Interested. ANNISTON, Ala., November 17.—[Special.]—A mass meeting of the citizens of Anniston was held tonight in regard to the Tennessee, Asheville and Coosa River road, which it is proposed to bring here from a point on the Louisville and Nashville road, in Bibb county. Much interest in the matter was developed, and another meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon. This road will open up the whole district in the south, and will cheapen that article by several dollars on the ton.

A New Railroad. MACON, Ga., November 17.—[Special.]—Certain citizens of Macon have obtained a charter and expect to build a new electric railroad to run out Third street to the Houston road. An electrician from Philadelphia is in the city today, and has gone over the proposed route. He is much pleased with the outlook, and will build the road if he obtains sufficient encouragement from local capitalists. He will lay fifty-pound rails.

General and Personal. Mr. Sam Hardwick was up from Savannah yesterday.

Mr. C. E. Lippincott, northern passenger agent of the Queen and Crescent, with headquarters at Detroit, has been transferred to Chattanooga and succeeds Mr. Dan Mulvaney, who has gone with the Richmond and Danville.

Miss Maggie Cushman, of Whitesboro, has been presented with $100 in gold by the New York Central in recognition of her services in warning trains of a washout near her home on May 24, 1890. This testimonial was rather late in coming, but better late than never.

At a recent meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association at Minneapolis, General Passenger Agent F. I. Whitney, of the Great Northern, presented a paper on "Work for the Railroad Men and How Can the Young Men's Christian Association Accomplish the Greatest Good in Their Realm?" He advocated the abolition of Sunday work, the forming of supplementary associations for railroad men, and the formation of reading rooms and attractive

PROFESSOR EARLI HEARD FROM.

He Writes an Atlanta Friend a Very Interesting Letter.

Mr. Alfredo Barilli's health has definitely improved since he went to Philadelphia. His Atlanta friends, who feared his physical condition was precarious, will be glad to hear of his improvement.

Last night one of Mr. Barilli's closest friends received from him an entertaining letter.

A reporter of THE CONSTITUTION, who perused the interesting epistle, was permitted to make the following extracts:

"I have been here now for nearly three weeks. I am glad to tell you that my health has improved very much, and I hope soon to be myself again."

"My condition has not permitted me to do anything much, but I have attended several concerts, among others the Boston Symphony orchestra, composed of eighty-five instrumentalists, conducted by Nikish. He is the most remarkable conductor I have ever seen. He leads without a baton, exerting a sort of hypnotic influence over the musicians that is really wonderful. You know Nikish is a disciple of Mme. Slavatsky, and he believes in esthetic theology."

"I also heard 'Cavalleria Rusticana,' the opera by Mascagni. This is a remarkable work for a young man who has only studied harmony five months, and cannot play any instrument."

"I leave here some time next week for British Columbia, for Japan. I shall probably stay in Yokohama some time. I have letters from the Japanese minister in Washington. I understand they have a fine orchestra of European musicians in Yokohama, and therefore it must be an interesting place. There is a conservatory of music there, and I shall probably get a position as teacher."

TWO GREAT EXPOSITIONS.

Sandy Cohen Talks About the Piedmont Exposition.

Sandy Cohen was in Atlanta yesterday and as usual he always effervesces. He said: "No such exhibitions have ever been held in Georgia as the late successful Piedmont and the wonderful Augusta exposition now in progress."

Continuing he said: "We had in Atlanta the best agricultural exhibits ever made in the United States and the best shows, Nelson of his Augustus has the most perfect exposition ever given in the United States. In the words of the secretary of the Piedmont exposition, Mr. Arnold, the Piedmont exposition was a great success artistically and financially." Here is an extract from Mr. Cohen's report to the board of directors last night:

The merchants, taking their own words, have had better business than at any previous event of this kind. All the merchants in the city, with almost unanimous voice, declare the exposition a tremendous success. The bringing of King Solomon no doubt had much to do with the saving of the exposition, and if one-half had been cut off of certain departments of exhibits the exposition would have been no loser. The company has been liberal in expenditure for attractions. This exposition has been derelict in looking out for exhibitors, and the secretary has done more than should have been expected of him in a work of this kind. I desire to call your attention to the fact that at an extravagant calculation your amusements foot up:

King Solomon.....	$ 10,000
Stage.....	4,000
Railroad.....	3,800
Amusement.....	3,000
Races, Kennedy.....	600
Philion.....	800
Extras.....	$ 28,600
Music.....	$ 29,000
	6,100
	$ 35,100

But, as to premiums, receipts and so forth, I do not know how to figure, but I shall simply say that from facts contained in his report, while he may be temporarily short of cash, the total result will show the exposition ahead.

TO NOTIFY BISHOP NELSON.

Mr. Harrison and Mr. Hunter Left to Visit Mr. Nelson Last Night.

Mr. Z. D. Harrison and Rev. W. C. Hunter, appointed to notify Bishop Nelson of his election, left last night at 7:50 o'clock to perform their mission. They will reach South Bethlehem, Pa., Thursday morning and hope to be able to complete the object of their mission and get back to Atlanta Saturday night.

Both gentlemen are confident that they will bring back Mr. Nelson's acceptance of the office, which he has accepted.

Mr. Harrison was not at all pleased with an article which appeared in yesterday's CONSTITUTION in which his methods in bringing out Mr. Nelson's name were referred to as political methods.

"We did nothing," said he, "but what was perfectly sound and above board."

Knoxville's Bonds Placed.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., November 17.—[Special.]—Knoxville has sold her municipal improvement bonds to the New York Life Insurance Company at par. The New York Life takes the total amount, $200,000. The bonds are gold, thirty-year 5 per cent, issued in denominations of $1,000 each.

AT THE CAPITOL.

A Military Advisory Board and Trustees of the Asylum Appointed.

THE GOVERNOR PASSES A BUSY DAY.

A Large Batch of Rewards Offered for Escaped Murderers—The Case of a Man Who "Cussed"—Capitol Notes.

Governor Northern passed a busy day in his office yesterday.

Among other things was the appointment of the military advisory board.

The terms of office of the present members expired on the 13th instant, but the incumbents, under the law, have held over.

Governor Northern appointed as members of the board, Colonel William W. Gordon, of Savannah; Colonel Edward L. Wight, Albany; Colonel W. L. Calhoun, Atlanta; Colonel E. B. Yancy, of Athens. The gentlemen are the field officers. The four captains appointed are: Captain J. L. Hardman, Macon, Ga.; Captain J. S. Thomas, Brunswick, Ga.; Captain C. S. Irwin, Washington, Ga.; Captain Fry, Augusta, Ga.

The two members of the governor's staff who are ex-officio members of the board are Quartermaster General Andrew J. West and Colonel A. W. Walton, mayor of Rome, Ga. The Asylum Trustees.

The governor yesterday appointed the ten trustees of the state lunatic asylum.

There has been much talk about who the appointees would be, and several applications for the places were filed with the governor. This all arose from some very strong adverse criticism of the present management of the asylum. It has been charged that the rules were not strictly enforced and that the general discipline was loose. This being a fact, it was not believed that the governor would reappoint the present board of trustees. But he did, not changing a single name, thus vindicating them, and approving their administration of the asylum's affairs.

Every man on the board is well known in his particular section of the state, and each has a clean record.

The board of trustees is as follows: T. S. Hopkins, Thomas; Walter S. McArthur, Montgomery; Eugene Foster, Richmond; John A. Cobb, Sumter; J. H. Nichols, White; R. T. Watts, Stewart; R. B. Nisbet, Putnam; W. H. Hall, Baldwin; J. H. Wilcox, G. A. Cabanis, Fulton.

After Many Days.

Here's a story from the governor's office in which the name of the principal cannot be used.

It's the story of a man who "cussed" another man six years ago and fled from justice, and now a requisition is made for him upon the governor of Alabama. There is a law in the governor's office, which is laid down to all reporters, and that is that the name of no party for whom a requisition is made be printed. It would put the criminal on notice—but this man "cussed"—"cussed" six years ago. He gave his opinion of one of his neighbors, in Cherokee county, in very strong language, and was with some hair-raising profanity. A warrant was sworn out against him, but as told above he fled to Alabama, and has been there since seeking to evade the lynx-eyed minions of the law. He was spotted a few days ago and a requisition on the governor of Alabama was drawn yesterday and the profane offender will be brought back to Georgia to answer the "A Batch of Rewards."

There seems to be an unusual quota of unpunished murderers loose in Georgia.

Yesterday Governor Northern offered several rewards for the capture of these murderers.

A reward of $100 was offered for the arrest of A. C. Woodruff, who killed a man named Wilson in Decatur county, October 24th. Also $75 for the arrest of Ephraim Willis, for the murder of Pinkie Edmondson in Walker county, May 3, 1891. Also $150 reward for the capture of Henry J. Bishop, who killed A. P. Daniel in Upson county October 1st, last. Also a reward of $100 for the arrest of Abe Farley, who went to the house of Mr. A. B. Brooks in Harris county, on the night of September 25th and began shooting into the house. Also a reward of $100 for the capture of the incendiary who set fire to the barn belonging to Mrs. Tiller, in Oglethorpe county, on the night of September 25th, 1891. Also a reward of $150 for the capture of Mack Brooks, who assaulted Miss Peck, in Coweta county, September 27th last.

The Railroad Commission.

The railroad commission spent yesterday in Albany inspecting the Albany depot case. They were entertained by the Albany officials, who, of course, presented the depot matter in as favorable light as possible. The members of the commission will return to the city today. Mr. Briscoe did not accompany the party on the trip.

Principal Keeper of the Penitentiary George H. Jones has been feeling slightly indisposed for several days, but has not left his office for a day.

The tax collectors have not yet begun to send in the taxes for 1891.

THE COLORED MEN

Held a Meeting Last Night and Passed Some Resolutions.

There was a meeting of the colored citizens at the courthouse last night, about eighty strong.

L. L. Lee, the colored undertaker, was made chairman of the meeting. G. M. Howell, the tailor, was made secretary.

The following resolution was introduced and passed and the meeting adjourned:

"Whereas, there are two tickets in the field for the municipal election which is to come off some time next month, after matured consideration,

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting to vote the anti-barroom ticket."

SAM JONES LAST NIGHT.

He Makes a Temperance Talk to Men Only at Prohibition Hall.

Sam Jones entertained a large audience at Prohibition hall last night.

His sallies of wit and humorous anecdotes evoked laughter from the audience.

He spoke in a very kindly manner of the colored brother in city politics and said that there were some good colored citizens in Atlanta who should be encouraged and who were a credit to the city.

He declared if "they fool with me I'll camp down here and carry this city for the anti-barroom ticket by 2,000 votes." He said he would be here all through the campaign.

He sandwiched his remarks with ludicrous hits and funny references, which compensated the audience for waiting through the cold to the finish.
